My river and I are as lovers that By ways that are pleasant and fields

My river and I are as one in the morn-

My river and I are but rendered Related in spirit for love that is Related in spirit for love that is sweet.

And Time in its march but returns us the dearer Each time that we meet.

O where then is God with His beautiful features
If this is not He in the lowlands and high?

O sweet is the bond between these of His creatures—
My river and I.

Suffragists in London town
Smashing statesmen's maps.
In the air
Everywhere
Sounds of fervid scraps.
Things are getting hot, oh, yes,
Useless to deny it—
All except these old U. S.—
Here we're pretty quiet!

True, 'twas not so long ago
We'd our little row—
Decent fues,
Peaceful muss,
And it's over now.
So we scan the storm and stress
(Though we scarce decry it),
And give thanks these old U. S.
Are so calm and quiet!

MY RIVER AND L.

By ways that are pleasant and fields that are fair,
Nor reck of the work-a-day world waiting yonder
With its burden of care.
O swift are the currents that wind through the heather,
And bright are the waters reflecting the sky!
O sweet is the song we are singing together.
My river and L

My river and I are as one in the morning.

When the breath of Aurora is over the deeps.
And one when the low, level sun is adorning.
The infinite steeps.
O wide are the waters with purity glowing.
And fair are the fields that go galloping by!
O sweet to us both is the love beyond knowing.

THE SCRAPPY EARTH.

Nicaragua, too.
Portugal still in a mess.
Spain dead scared of riot;
But around these old U. S.
Things are pretty quiet!

What's the matter with the earth?
Why's the whole world itching?
Making kings
Take to wings,
All the bosses ditching?
When is peace once more to bless
All these scenes of riot?
Anyhow, these old U. S.
Still are calm and quiet!
